Report on Mahatma Public Library, Shevgaon

Establishment and Historical Significance:

The Mahatma Public Library, Shevgaon, was established in 1885 by Justice Mahadev Govind Ranade. This library has preserved the cultural heritage of Shevgaon, safeguarding rare manuscripts such as handwritten copies of Shrimad Bhagavad Gita, Dasbodh, and Dnyaneshwari, along with English and Marathi dictionaries. It serves as a testament to the socio-cultural, religious, and intellectual evolution of the region. The library stands as a witness to the pre-independence and post-independence developments in the community.

Preservation and Modernization Efforts:

Under the initiative "Preservation and Conservation of Historical Moments," college students actively participate in preserving the rare manuscripts housed in the library. Following the principle of "Timely Adaptation," the library established the Purushottam Nivrutti Bhapkar Study Room in 2017, aimed at helping rural students prepare for competitive examinations.

Collaboration with Pravara Medical Trust's Arts, Commerce, and Science College, Shevgaon:

In the academic year 2017-18, the library entered into an MoU with the college to promote "Qualitative Development of Students and Preservation of Reading Culture." Under this collaboration:

- Both institutions work together to enhance students' overall development.
- Activities are conducted to instill a love for reading and extend the library movement to rural areas.
- Various competitions are organized, including the Intercollegiate Justice Mahadev Govind Ranade Trophy by the library and the Sindhu Trophy Elocution Competition by the college.

Student Benefits and Participation:

Students of Pravara Medical Trust's Arts, Commerce, and Science College have been consistently benefiting from these initiatives since 2017. Female students are provided free access to all library services. Additionally, the college's National Service Scheme (NSS) department actively participates in the preservation and awareness activities related to the library.

This collaboration aims to encourage reading habits, foster self-expression, and promote qualitative academic growth among students.
