Educational Tour to Agricultural Exhibition at Baramati

Report

Date: February 12, 2022

Introduction

The Commerce and Botany departments of Pravara Medical Trust Arts, Commerce and Science College, Shevgaon, organized an educational tour on February 12, 2022, to the agricultural exhibition held at Baramati. The primary objective of this tour was to provide students from the Commerce department with practical exposure to agro-business management and to familiarize Botany students with the latest advancements and innovations in agriculture.

Tour Group

A total of 30 students from the Commerce and Botany departments participated in the tour. Additionally, professors Mr. Sumit Pulate, Mr. Mohan Paratwagh, Mr. Somnath Dhamal, and Ms. Shital Markad guided and accompanied the students.

Main Attractions of the Exhibition

Agro-Business Management:

The exhibition included various displays related to agro-business management, particularly for the Commerce students. These displays featured agricultural equipment marketing, success stories of entrepreneurs, and information about different agribusinesses. This helped students gain a clearer understanding of agro-business management.

Modern Agricultural Technology:

For the Botany students, there were displays on various types of plants, new seed varieties, pesticides, fertilizers, and modern farming equipment. These exhibits allowed students to learn about new agricultural technologies and innovations.

Agricultural Products:

The exhibition showcased products made from different crops, helping students understand the importance of value addition in agriculture.

Student Experiences

After the tour, students shared their experiences. They found the exhibition to be extremely beneficial as it provided insights into various aspects of agriculture. The students gained awareness of agro-business management and modern agricultural technologies.

Conclusion

The educational tour to the agricultural exhibition at Baramati proved to be a valuable experience for the students. It offered them both theoretical and practical knowledge. Similar tours should be organized in the future to provide students with new learning opportunities.
