Field Visit on 17th December 2022

Report

Date: 17th December 2022

Organized by: Department of Chemistry

Participants: Graduate and Postgraduate Students of Chemistry

Objective: To provide students with hands-on exposure to the practical applications of chemistry in agriculture and related fields.

Overview:

The field visit to the Krushi Vigyan Kendra Dahigaon-Ne aimed to familiarize students with the various departments at KVK, emphasizing the practical applications of their theoretical knowledge in real-world agricultural settings. This experiential learning opportunity also served to bridge the gap between academic concepts and their practical implications in the field of agriculture, helping students understand the interdisciplinary applications of chemistry.

During the visit, students had the opportunity to explore several departments within the KVK, each of which provided insight into various aspects of agriculture where chemistry plays a crucial role. The following departments are visited, along with their contributions and relevance to the student's field of study.

Agronomy and Crop Management

In this department, Mr. Narayan Nibe gave valuable guidance on crop management. Students were introduced to the science behind crop cultivation, growth stages, and yield optimization. The importance of fertilizers, pesticides, and herbicides was discussed, including their chemical compositions and their impact on soil and crop health. The department highlighted sustainable practices, including organic farming methods and the reduction of chemical inputs through integrated pest management, showing the importance of chemistry in developing environmentally friendly farming techniques.

Horticulture Department

The Horticulture Department showcased the methods of cultivation and post-harvest handling of fruits, vegetables, and ornamental plants. Students learned about plant nutrient requirements, preservation techniques, and the role of growth regulators and preservatives. The department explained the chemistry behind plant physiology and growth, with demonstrations on how various nutrients affect plant development. Mr. Nandkishor Dahatonde gave valuable information on Horticulture.

Entomology (Plant Protection) Department

This department Mr. Manik Lakhe educated students on pest management, focusing on the identification and control of common pests affecting crops. Students learned about insecticide formulations, the chemistry of active ingredients, and the processes involved in pest control application. The department also discussed the importance of understanding chemical residues in crops, demonstrating the balance required between effective pest management and food safety.

Plant Pathology Department

The Plant Pathology Department Mr. Prakash Hinge introduced students to disease management, focusing on the detection and control of plant pathogens such as fungi, bacteria, and viruses. Students observed the laboratory analysis methods used to diagnose diseases and learned about the chemical treatments applied to manage them. This session highlighted the importance of chemistry in disease diagnosis and treatment strategies, as well as in the development of disease-resistant crop varieties.

Soil & Water Testing Department

Mr. Prakash Bahirt Sir guided by Soil & Water Testing Department focused on soil health and fertility management, where students learned about soil sampling, testing, and analysis techniques. The department demonstrated the procedures used for analysing soil pH, nutrient levels, and moisture content. The students observed how these analyses directly inform recommendations for crop selection and fertilization, emphasizing the role of chemistry in sustainable agricultural practices.

Conclusion:

The visit provided the Chemistry Department students with a practical understanding of how chemistry intersects with agricultural practices. By interacting with experts from diverse fields, students gained insight into the chemical principles soil & water testing, crop management, horticulture, and pest control. The visit highlighted the necessity of chemical knowledge in various agricultural applications, reinforcing the interdisciplinary nature of their studies and its practical relevance.

Report on Mahatma Public Library, Shevgaon

Establishment and Historical Significance:

The Mahatma Public Library, Shevgaon, was established in 1885 by Justice Mahadev Govind Ranade. This library has preserved the cultural heritage of Shevgaon, safeguarding rare manuscripts such as handwritten copies of Shrimad Bhagavad Gita, Dasbodh, and Dnyaneshwari, along with English and Marathi dictionaries. It serves as a testament to the socio-cultural, religious, and intellectual evolution of the region. The library stands as a witness to the pre-independence and post-independence developments in the community.

Preservation and Modernization Efforts:

Under the initiative "Preservation and Conservation of Historical Moments," college students actively participate in preserving the rare manuscripts housed in the library. Following the principle of "Timely Adaptation," the library established the Purushottam Nivrutti Bhapkar Study Room in 2017, aimed at helping rural students prepare for competitive examinations.

Collaboration with Pravara Medical Trust's Arts, Commerce, and Science College, Shevgaon:

In the academic year 2017-18, the library entered into an MoU with the college to promote "Qualitative Development of Students and Preservation of Reading Culture." Under this collaboration:

- Both institutions work together to enhance students' overall development.
- Activities are conducted to instill a love for reading and extend the library movement to rural areas.
- Various competitions are organized, including the Intercollegiate Justice Mahadev Govind Ranade Trophy by the library and the Sindhu Trophy Elocution Competition by the college.

Student Benefits and Participation:

Students of Pravara Medical Trust's Arts, Commerce, and Science College have been consistently benefiting from these initiatives since 2017. Female students are provided free access to all library services. Additionally, the college's National Service Scheme (NSS) department actively participates in the preservation and awareness activities related to the library.

This collaboration aims to encourage reading habits, foster self-expression, and promote qualitative academic growth among students.
